New American Sea, Air Drive To Slow Up Nipponese Forces Expected.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Two attempts by the Japanese to land troops on the west coast of Batan peninsula the night of Feb. 2 were repulsed with heavy enemy losses, the war department announced today, and General Douglas MacArthur's forces also successfully counter-attacked the Japanese on their right flank, overrunning three lines of enemy trenches.

The landing attempts to MacArthur's left consisted of a first raid by Tator's special shock troops which were repulsed by artillery fire, and a second and more serious attempt at midnight, when American night flying pursuit planes discovered a large number of barges approaching the coast under naval escort.

The planes attacked the convoy immediately with light bombs and machine guns, and as the enemy barges approached the shore the American and Filipino beach defense force attacked them with artillery. None of the barges reached shore, although a number were found disabled and burning along the beaches the next morning.

On MacArthur's right, where Japanese had attempted to drive a wedge into the defending lines, the American counter-attacked and captured large amounts of enemy equipment.

The counter-attack overran three lines of enemy trenches, the communiqué, the 90th of the war, said.

It also disclosed that Brigadier General (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Complete Plans For Collection Of Scrap Metal

As the opening date of the county-wide drive to collect scrap metal for defense drew nearer today, G. W. Marriott, general chairman, perfected plans for the organization of the campaign that gets underway Monday, Feb. 9, and continues through Feb. 15.

George L. Rogers has been appointed first lieutenant of transportation and Mrs. Emma Young will be in charge of drive headquarters located in the American Legion home.

City and county residents having scrap metal and iron to donate are asked to notify Mrs. Young and have their contribution ready when the pick-up trucks make their rounds. Arrangements have been made, according to Marriott, to pay for the metal if people demand something for it.

County Commissioner C. W. Mitchell heads the transportation committee which will obtain trucks and set up a schedule for the collection throughout the county. The aid of three trustees in each of the county's 18 townships (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Question: Is City Waterworks Covered By Insurance Or Not?

City council will be requested tonight to do something to straighten out a tangle concerning the city's insurance on its waterworks system.

Mayor W. J. Locke thinks the city is insured under the terms of an insurance policy held by the city. The policy would provide for the payment of a claim the city has pending for some 33 hours when some of the pumping system equipment was out of commission.

SECOND VICTIM

Crash In Which Mother Died Brings Daughter's Death.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Blake McKinley, 38, died in Samaritan hospital today, the second victim of an automobile-bus collision here which claimed the life Sunday of her mother, Mrs. Laura Henney, 75.

Mrs. McKinley, who was riding with her husband when their car skidded and crashed into a Greyhound bus on U. S. Route 42 suffered chest and internal injuries, hospital attendants said.

The body was removed to the Denbow-Bear funeral home where funeral services had been planned this afternoon for her mother. The arrangements at noon were still incomplete.

Surviving with her husband: three sisters, Mrs. Mary Casper, Mrs. Bertha Morgan, and Mrs. John Boley, all of Ashland, and two brothers, George and John, both of Ashland.

CUTS TRAVEL

Germany Takes Over Railroads For Troop Movements.

BERNE — (AP) — For the second time in less than three weeks Germany has imposed restrictions on civilian railway travel in order to release every possible piece of rolling stock in a tremendous effort to transport fresh supplies of men and arms to the eastern front.

The restrictions were necessitated, according to the Berlin newspaper Lokalanzeiger, by "more and increasing demands upon the railways to supply the eastern areas and to put at the disposal of the army means of transport for staff and freight."

ARMY READY TO RELAX ITS DRAFT RULES

Hershey Says 'Minor Defect' Class To Be Taken In By Hundred Thousands.

CITES MANPOWER NEED

Reveals Legislation Proposed To Induct Many Deferred By Dependency Rule.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said today that army entrance standards inevitably would be lowered as the need for manpower developed, and predicted that men with minor defects would be taken in for limited service "by the hundred thousands."

He appeared before a special house committee investigating migration of defense workers and concentrating now on methods of mustering all available manpower for prosecution of the war effort.

A prepared statement Hershey brought with him said: "Allowance and allotment legislation has been proposed, and if enacted in proper form, it will release for induction many registrants, now deferred on the grounds of dependency."

He noted at one point, however, that dependency still would remain "an outstanding condition of deferment."

Hershey asserted flatly that competition among the various employees of manpower "must be controlled or eliminated," adding: "Although war industrial production must be maintained it should not be permitted to draw unnecessarily upon the supply of potential I-A men or upon men engaged in war or agricultural production."

Saying that he was "frightened" at the American "philosophy of abundance," Hershey said "we haven't enough manpower for everything."

"A survey of our manpower," he said, "reveals that there are not enough young, 100 per cent perfect men to fill the total manpower requirements of all users of manpower, if we contemplate the possibility of having an armed force of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 men, and materials to equip it."

SIX BELOW!

That's Official Temperature In City Last Night.

Mansfielders were convinced today that Mr. Groundhog knew his stuff yesterday when he dove back into his winter retreat because the mercury this morning went down to six degrees below zero.

The only encouragement offered by the weatherman was that there would be rising temperatures tonight. All Ohio felt the cold blast which came on the heels of a blanket of five-inch snow over the weekend.

The highest mark hit on the thermometer in 24 hours was 16 degrees at 10 a. m. today. Average temperature for the past 24 hours was five degrees, 23.4 lower than the 17-year average.

Council Considers $5,000 For Airport Improvement Tonight

Some of the rougher spots will be taken off Mansfield's run-down airport this year, if city council acts favorably on a $5,000 appropriation ordinance for maintenance of the port during 1942 at its February meeting today at 8 p. m. in the municipal building.

The appropriation is being requested by James (Red) Harrington, director of the airport, to provide funds for getting the port in shape for flying.

The funds would not be used for any major improvement. Last week, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that he was assembling data for making a $400,000 request from the federal government for improving the airport as a defense measure.

Harrington's request concerns the grading and draining of the field and the improvement of taxi strips and existing runways. Last month, he itemized the needs for the $5,000 as follows: Seeding of runways, $1,000; widening of runways, $750; leveling of bad spots on the field, $1,500; repair of tile drains, $300; extension of taxi strips, $500; marking of field, $250; and surfacing of the plane parking area, $500.

ANSWER CURFEW LAY-OFF CHARGE

Gasoline Retailers Group Issues Statement; City Studies Ordinance.

With Mansfield's city council scheduled to consider a "curfew" ordinance for gasoline stations at its meeting tonight, the Gasoline Retailers association issued a formal statement today, clarifying its position in the situation. Members of the association are backing the curfew ordinance.

Their statement obviously was in reply to the stand taken yesterday by John B. Coleman, division manager of the Standard Oil company, whose company-operated stations have not been observing the voluntary curfew schedule adopted by the association, made up of independent station operators.

The association statement said that members had not been laying men off as charged, but that they were finding it difficult to obtain men because of the increased enlistments and drafting into the armed forces.

The association's proposed ordinance calls for the closing of all stations between 7 p. m. and 7 (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

REGULAR TERMS IN OHIO SCHOOLS

Won't Shorten Period Unless U. S. Asks, State Director Says.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio probably will not shorten its public school term during the war unless the federal government requests it, state education director Kenneth C. Ray said today.

Ray reported receiving numerous suggestions to curtail the 176-180 days of schooling, required by law, to allow rural children to help with crops in the farm labor shortage.

The latest proposal came from Sandusky county agriculture war board.

Japanese Mass For Attempt to Invade Island

Defenders Struggle To Subdue Many Fires Started By Repeated Waves Of Enemy Bombers, Keep Sharp Watch Along Johore Strait.

(By Associated Press)
SINGAPORE—Wave after wave of Japanese bombers hurled high explosives at this great British bastion today while Nipponese troops concentrated at the tip of conquered Malaya for an attempt to storm the island.

With imperial forces drawn up along the mile-wide moat of Johore strait and watchful around the entire 70 mile perimeter of this stronghold, firemen and police were kept busy throughout the interior controlling fires lit by the Japanese bombs.

Enemy dive bombers added their screaming fury to the attack, but the British communiqué said military casualties had been slight.

The United Nations struck back with a raid on the Klang airdrome, 50 miles north, where many of the attackers were believed to be based.

In the section of Singapore city which bore the brunt of this morning's bombing, authorities and ARP squads cleared away the debris within a few minutes to make way for five trucks which quickly played water on a number of high leaping fires.

Aside from the air attack virtually no military action worthy of mention occurred during this fourth day of siege.

The big guns poised along the narrow Johore strait fired intermittently, but so far the targets have been well concealed.

The gloomy wall of air raid sirens filled the air, off and on, throughout the day.

RAP reconnaissance showed a considerable movement of enemy troops southward through the lush green Malaya jungles.

Two separate formations of bombers, one numbering nine planes and the other 27, swept over the island during the morning in a swift hit-and-run attack.

Confident of their ability to make the invader pay dearly for a mass assault across Johore strait, imperial forces kept sharp watch to thwart any repetition of the infiltration tactics which forces them to yield the Malayan mainland but there was no sign yet of any ground activity.

Bombing activity, however, was described by a communiqué as "considerable during the last 24 hours. High level and dive-bomb attacks being carried out and causing some fires." Nevertheless, it added, military casualties were slight.

AGAIN: U. S. Planes Sink Two More Ships In Macassar Strait

BATAVIA—American army battle planes sank two and probably three more Japanese transports in the Macassar straits, communiques said today, but heavy enemy air attacks indicating preparations for an invasion attempt battered the big Dutch naval base of Soerabaya and the main air bases on Java.

Half a dozen Japanese planes were shot down, including a bomber and several fighters at Soerabaya.

The United States aerial attacks on a Japanese convoy off the East Borneo port of Balikpapan boosted to 34 or 35 the number of enemy vessels sunk or damaged in the battle of Macassar straits and the destruction of more enemy airplanes brought to approximately 30, including nine shot down by U. S. Flying Fortresses.

The threat of a big-scale Japanese invasion thrust against the main Dutch islands of Sumatra and Java, headquarters for the United Nations supreme command, increased as the enemy tightened his grip on Borneo and sought to establish new stepping stone bases in the encirclement of Singapore.

The presence of the Japanese convoy, which American planes (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

ATTACK: British Claim They Are Taking Offensive In Libya

British North African troops, thrown back 225 miles in less than two weeks, were reported attacking Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies "wherever found" in western Libya today in an attempt to check the head-long Axis counter-offensive.

A British spokesman, emphasizing the prime necessity of destroying the enemy's forces in desert warfare, declared: "Area is not important. Tanks, men and trucks are."

Cairo headquarters indicated that Gen. Rommel's vanguards had reached the vicinity of Sidi Barrani, 105 miles northeast of Benghazi and 225 miles northwest of El Agheila, highwater mark of the British January offensive.

While the British said they now were taking the initiative, the German high command gave this version: "In Cirenaica (Libya), the retreating enemy again was brought to battle and dislodged."

Premier Mussolini's high command also asserted that German

GEN. JOHNSON: Price Chiefs Put Reins on Farm Goods

By HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—The first recorded dollar-a-year man in our history was George Washington. As is usual in such political capers, the hubbalooboo about dollar-a-year men in Donald Nelson's war-production top-side crew is due to misunderstanding.

There is not and there never has been anything to be criticized in a man donating his services. When Washington accepted from congress his command of all our armed forces (and that included navy) he stipulated that, while he expected reimbursement for his out-of-pocket expenses, he would accept no compensation. So he served for seven years and it was considered a brilliant example.

Going even back of that in our pre-Revolutionary history, most of the great British explorers and colonizers were operating at their own expense. There was this difference—the latter had some peculiar personal financial interest in the outcome. Washington had none.

It is the latter circumstance and not the service without pay—or dollar-a-year—that makes us look askance at the appointment of the heads of big business or their close associates to guide the disbursement of billions in public money. Are they dealing directly or indirectly with themselves?

If they are, it won't do. B. M. Baruch set the precedent for that. He was associated with the management of no business but as soon as he was appointed he filed a statement of all his private holdings. He sold every salable interest. He invested nearly all the proceeds in Liberty bonds.

His friends thought this was quixotic or going further than was necessary but in a few years the pay-off came.

Gen. Johnson.

When Senator Nye's committee started its witch-hunt for 1918 dollar-a-year men, great disclosures were expected from this woolly lamb. His books were intact. They disclosed all this. They disclosed more. Instead of making any money out of the war, he had lost millions.

Donald Nelson's problem was slightly different. He is not a wealthy man. But he had a whopping salary from Sears, Roebuck & Co., ($70,000 a year). They were willing to lend him to the government and continue his pay.

But in the all-embracing activities of his new job and of that company, it was improbable that he would not some day be "dealing with himself." So he made what in some respects was a greater (if different) sacrifice than Baruch. He resigned his salary and his position.

Thus Nelson is in the clear himself. But in his organization, are many jobs that require the best industrial and managerial talent in the country. That exists mostly in big business. A question remains about these of Nelson's associates.

Let us rid it of one aspect that is foolishly immaterial—it makes no difference whether they get one dollar or ten thousand dollars. The real question is "directly or indirectly, are they dealing with themselves?"

But, as Nelson so staunchly contended, and as seems not yet fully understood, there is a simple way out of the only real difficulty. Leave it to Nelson. He must see to it that none of his men has any decision in any case involving their private interest. Everybody who knows him feels that he can and will do that. If he doesn't his show is a flop before it starts.

It is a curious thing that nobody mentions the fact that Sidney Hillman, the labor czar opposite Nelson, is drawing a considerable sum from organized labor and that he does deal directly with himself.

WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS BILL HITS NEW OBSTACLE

Hershey Called By Congress To Outline Place For Women In Service.

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—Congress today turned to a broad study of the full utilization of American woman power in the war effort as the bill sponsored by Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.), to create a women's auxiliary army corps met unexpected legislative opposition.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, was called by the special house committee investigating defense migration for questioning as to what steps have been taken to find the proper place for the thousands of women anxious and ready to serve.

Supporters of the Rogers bill, proposing to set up a uniformed corps of $21-a-month women soldiers for non-combatant duties, meanwhile sought to overcome an eleventh hour fight against the measure.

Unanimously approved by the house military affairs committee, the bill suddenly hit an unexpected snag in the powerful rules committee, which failed to send it to the floor.

Members said "there developed quite a bit of opposition because some feel such a corps would interfere with the work that women volunteers are doing at present."

It was explained that many women are serving without compensation on a part-time basis in air raid warning centers and other defense installations.

The army plans, they said, to replace these women with members of the corps, and while many women are able to serve part time they would be unable to sign up full time in the corps, and therefore would be "squeezed out."

Meanwhile Rep. Tolan (D-Cal.), chairman of the migration investigating committee, said he would ask Hershey about what part women can play in the war program and how they can best be utilized.

He said Hershey also will be asked in general about draft deferments, particularly about what steps have been taken to see that vitally needed farm laborers are not called up in too great numbers.

Billy Briggs, Norman Otto and Jacqueline Gordon placed in the third grade and Edna Schrack took another single award.

FIRST SPY TRIAL OF PRESENT WAR OPENS IN FEDERAL COURT

(By United Press)
NEW YORK—Six men and a woman went on trial in federal court today on charges of having been spies for Germany.

It was the first spy trial since the United States entered the war. But because the defendants committed the alleged crimes before the war was declared, they face a maximum of 20 years in prison, instead of the firing squad.

The alleged master mind of the ring was Ohio-born Kurt Frederick Ludwig, who was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation last August in Seattle, while he was fleeing.

Ludwig, the government charges, turned over the information he gathered to another defendant, Paul T. Borchart, 56, former major in the German army and professor at the Geographic Military Institute of Munich. Borchart was said to have called Ludwig's reports and sent them on to Portugal.

The principal witness against them will be Lucy Boehmer, blond and 18. She made frequent automobile trips with Ludwig, on which they picked up hitch-hiking soldiers so Miss Boehmer could entice military secrets from them with her charms it was charged.

The woman defendant is Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer. Her husband fled to the Orient when Germany attacked Russia, and was last reported in Japan.

The other defendants are Rene C. Froelich, former private in the American army, Hans Helmuth Pagel, Frederick Edward Schloesser and Karl Victor Muller, a naturalized citizen and machinist.

J. A. GROGG DIES

Former Johnsville Resident Came To City Recently.

Joseph A. Grogg, 82, formerly of Johnsville, died yesterday in General hospital after an illness of several weeks. Born in Morrow county, where he spent the greater part of his life, he came to Mansfield 11 weeks ago to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Fred A. Kochheiser, 194 Bowland road. He was a member of the Brethren church of Johnsville.

He is survived by a son, Laton Curtis Grogg of Glendale, Ariz.; two daughters, Mrs. Hattie Treisch of Johnsville, and Mrs. Kochheiser of Mansfield; and three grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wapner funeral home, where private services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in the Shauk cemetery.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking for Myself:

I AM enchanted by the new game Keenan Wynne is proposing for cold winter evenings when the Broadwayites are drawn snugly around their highballs in the velvet cafes, and I am a sorry Damon Runyon is on the west coast, because he is a great student of the cinema, especially in its form known as the B picture, and he would have been a fine contributor to the game.

Kilgallen

The idea of the game, pastime is to recall the "stock" sentences that have been heard in stock situations from 20 to 100 times in motion pictures.

Once you have thought of one, your competitors can usually top you with cliches that get hoarser and more beautiful as the evening wears on.

Of course a good starter is the situation where the celluloid detective rounds up the murder suspects and says crisply: "The murderer is someone in this room!" Then there is the movie reporter—Cary Grant or Ray Milland—who calls his city editor, pushes his hat back off his forehead, and screams into the phone, "Chief, gimme rewrite. Boy, I've got a story that's gonna bust this town wide open!"

But my favorite remains the one that is in every aviation picture. Errol Flynn says: "Go up in that old crate! Why, that's suicide!" You'd be surprised how many you can think up. But the game really needs Runyon.

The phrase "Everybody loves a fat man" seems to be disappearing lately—which seems only fair, since no one ever claimed that anybody loved a fat woman. But I can remember when the comedians were a shining example of how devoted people could be to a round gent—avoidpous was as useful to a comedian as a snappy gag.

Now the best of them are slim fellows. Bobby Clark is magnificent slender. Durante has no extra weight on his waistline. Bert Lahr is a veritable reed, and Jack Benny could model for a Fifth Avenue tailor.

So the old tradition, it seems, hasn't even a stage to stand on.

I love John Haysradt's imitation of Hitler—the most unusual mimicry of that particular subject that I've seen. No moustache, no saluting, no hair over one eye, no ranting. Haysradt just runs around the floor looking over his shoulder. . . . The end in something-or-other is the refusal of Ruby Foo's restaurant to sell coffee. Even the waiter didn't know why; they just don't serve it. I suppose it's because coffee isn't Chinese; if that's so, the Stork club might as well start to refuse to sell its customers tea, on the theory that tea isn't American.

I like to see Billy Burke playing the Grace George part in the movie version of "Spring Again." . . . Cute song is the new "Did Yuh Hear Me, Huh?" by Harry Rauch and Frank Connors. . . . Funny how our terms of affection are literally from hunger—"You look good enough to eat, honey." "She's sweet as sugar." "You're the cream in my coffee" and "Apple of my eye," to name just a few. . . . Of course this belongs in the wouldn't-you-know-it department, but a group of actors from "Brooklyn U. S. A." recently went to a hospital to donate blood to the Red Cross. Well, everyone went except the coroner, who went to the undertaker's—except the two most conscienceless "killers" in the drama. They fainted dead away at the thought of blood.

Treasurer Gets $9,000 Before Tax Books Open.

The Richland county treasurer's office was given a head start in county real estate tax collections for the first half of 1941, yesterday, when property owners paid taxes to the amount of $9,281, four days before the tax books officially open Feb. 5.

County Treasurer Charles Payne credits the Saturday mailing of tax statements to all property owners in the county with the early collections, a part of which represented taxes for not only the first half of 1941 but the full year.

Fifty per cent of the collections yesterday were received by mail, Payne said, while the remainder was paid directly by the property owners at the treasurer's office. The tax books will remain open until March 20 for an anticipated collection of approximately $760,000, according to Payne.

STAMP SALES SHOW INCREASE

But Mansfielders Buy Fewer Bonds In January Than December.

Although Mansfield defense bond sales took a dip of approximately $100,000 last month from the previous month, defense stamp sales soared, postal officials said today, as official figures revealed that 84,316 stamps were sold last month.

The sale of defense bonds last month amounted to $28,275 as compared with $37,387 worth sold during December, but Postmaster H. E. Homberger attributed this to the fact that during December business was naturally heavier, and to the fact that a great many persons bought bonds as Christmas gifts.

Stamps, perhaps because they can be purchased in smaller denominations than bonds, were sold in even greater numbers than during the Christmas month. December stamp sales amounted to $6,929, while last month's receipts from this source came to $14,354.

Richard Polling, publisher of the Football Review, continues to hear from his British friend who's an enthusiastic fan although he's never seen a football game. Two years ago Polling received an order for his annual supplement from V. Cook, in Lancashire, who had read enough on the game to know it well, even though he'd never seen it played. Last year Cook wrote and asked for a supplement, although he was unable to send money out of the country. Now Polling has another letter from Cook—who now advises he's been in the Royal Navy for 12 months. He writes he's still unable to send money out of the country. Regardless, Polling put the supplement in the mail.

There were plenty of "ohs" and "ahs" when the members of Girl Scout troop No. 10, of Fifth street school, saw their first orchid during a group visit to a downtown florist shop recently. In the group were June and Ruth Zaebst, Lee Ann McCullough, Ann Schoenman, Norma Jean Workman, Joan Freeman, Marjorie Griffiths, Betsy Weller, Mary M. May, Greta Adams, Elaine Wilkins, Patsy Heilman, Irene Robinson, Carol Hamman and Margaret Reed. Scout Leader Helen McCausland and Jane Krieg, assistant, were in charge of the group.

Looking for a novel way to honor his wife on her birthday, John M. Schroeder, News-Journal city editor, (this is his day off), hit upon the notion of inviting a neighbor family to dinner and preparing the whole meal himself. The dinner was Sunday but Schroeder started his preparations Friday night by baking a cake. It fell, Early Sunday, he put the celery on the back porch so it would be crisp and cold. It froze. But in other details, guests reported, the dinner was entirely satisfactory—from appetizers to ice cream and cake. Schroeder, looking somewhat haggard after the experience, commented only: "Next year for her birthday my wife gets something that can be wrapped up in a store."

SIGN RECRUITS

Marine, Navy Stations Enlist 11; 21 Leave Wednesday.

AGREE COST OF LIVING SHOULD BE STABILIZED

Secretary Wickard Indicates Parity Considered Right For Farm Prices.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON—INS—Brig. Gen. Lewis R. Hershey, draft director, today told congress that "a large percentage" of women soon will be working in war industries in order to free men for active service.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The nation's farmers heard straight from headquarters today that the war boom in the market for their products has gone about as far as the agriculture department and the office of price administration will permit.

Leon Henderson, the price administrator, and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard disclosed yesterday they were in "complete agreement" that the cost of living should be stabilized.

The agriculture department will do its part by using government-owned stocks of grains and cotton "to supplement private stocks" and by keeping feed prices at levels which will encourage production of meat and livestock products.

The price administrator will reciprocate by bearing down on the prices of things farmers buy.

The joint statement did not disclose how high the planned to let farm prices go, but Wickard provided a clue Saturday when he told the senate agriculture committee he thought "around parity" would be about right.

Parity is a price which would give farm products the same purchasing power as they had in a stipulated previous period—for most crops, the years 1909-14.

Farm prices averaged 102 per cent of parity as of January 15, the agriculture department reported. Some were much higher, some much lower.

Under the recently enacted price control bill, the secretary of agriculture was given veto power over farm price ceilings fixed by the price administrator. President Roosevelt signed the bill into law and yesterday formally nominated Henderson as administrator.

Some farm state lawmakers were outspoken in their objections to holding farm prices below 110 per cent of parity. Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) suggested that the farm bill undertake to whittle down future agriculture department appropriations, specifically for subsidy payments, and thus force a reduction in the department's personnel.

Grandma's Method Right In Wartime, Hairdresser Says

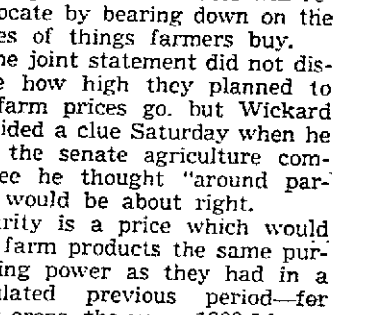

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Grandmother's use of rags to do up feminine curls was once today by a hair stylist at the convention of the Hairdressers' Guild of Ohio.

In a demonstration, freshly shampooed hair was rolled around wads of wool and fastened with hairpins.

Dimitry, a Chicago stylist who said he was a Cossack Cavalryman during the Russian revolution, described his method of fashioning loose, soft curls especially effective now that "the long bob is on its way out for the duration."

Hair shouldn't be longer than three inches for spring styles, he advised, adding that the shorter hair-do would heighten feminine appeal to offset the severity of civilian defense uniforms.

JAPS MASS TO TRY INVASION OF SINGAPORE

Planes Start Many Fires in Fortress With Repeated Bombing Attacks.

(A Rome broadcast of Tokyo reports said Japanese artillery was subjecting British positions to a heavy bombardment, with British naval guns silenced at one point and the great naval base and docks rendered useless by the shelling.)

(Twenty ships of various sizes are in Keppel harbor on Singapore waterfront at the south side of the island, Japanese pilots reported.)

Military circles expressed belief the Japanese would try to win a foothold on the island either by dropping parachute troops or by ships ashore from small boats under cover of darkness before launching a frontal assault.

They saw little chance, however, that such tactics might succeed, for they pointed out that the troops concentrated here have little more than 70 miles of coastline to defend.

Some observers suggested that the Japanese, having won the Malay peninsula, might elect to neutralize Singapore's strategic importance merely by holding it in a state of siege, thereby avoiding the losses they might suffer in trying to capture it, and releasing large numbers of men for action elsewhere.

The general view in military quarters, however, was that the Japanese would take the risk of trying to reduce the fortress for reasons of prestige and it was believed that the first thrusts by sea or air would come at any hour.

This belief was strengthened by a sudden increase in Japanese bombing attacks yesterday, apparently aimed at knocking out airdromes on the island and thus gaining control of the skies.

Observers acknowledged that aerial supremacy probably would be a major factor in the battle, but they pointed out that the island is so close to Sumatra—80 miles to the south across Malacca strait—that allied planes based there could easily take part in the struggle.

The bombing yesterday, aimed at widely separated parts of Singapore island, started a number of fires and sent clouds of heavy black smoke floating across the city.

The crump of exploding bombs mingled with the sharp bark of British batteries firing intermittently at Japanese forces concentrating on the north side of Johore strait.

Members of the mixed garrison of British, Australian and Indian troops, refreshed by hours of rest after their long, hard-fighting retreat down the Malay peninsula, actually seemed anxious for the Japanese to pen the attack.

north of Changnon Island but were said to have been repulsed. Reports indicated the Japanese thrust toward the approaches to Rangoon was being directed along a 50-mile front from the Salween river mouth below Moulmein to Paan.

The Japanese were attempting to cross the wide, treacherous waters of the Salween by hop-skip-and-jump methods by the numerous small islands and mudflats which dot the Salween estuary.

Thus far, reports indicated, they have had scant success. Their sea landing efforts north of Changnon were carried out by small craft but the small Japanese landing boats were beaten back.

Chinese Repel Jap Drive on Nanchang

NEW DELHI, India.—(INS)—Chinese troops have repelled a Japanese offensive 30 miles west of Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi Province, according to a report broadcast by the new Delhi radio today.

Nanchang is situated 200 miles east of Changsha, scene of a great Japanese defeat several weeks ago.

In the Nanchang region battle, the radio report stated, more than 300 Japanese were killed.

Shelby's Council Balks At 5-Year Gas Rate Offer

(Continued From Page 1) The mayor said, will be to collect rate data with the idea of drafting a proposal to be submitted to the company which has failed to offer the city a contract proposal since the three-year contract with the city expired nearly five months ago.

The present flat rate contract which will remain in force until a new agreement is approved by council was approved in September, 1938, climaxing a seven-month controversy over the rate question.

The average 5,000-foot consumer pays 69½ cents a thousand per month, and the 10,000-foot user about 62½ cents a thousand. The present rate calls for $1 for the first 500 cubic feet, 55 cents per hundred for the next 3,500 feet, and five cents a hundred for all in excess of 10,000 cubic feet.

STARTS TODAY

Advanced Flying Course For Six Under Way at Field.

An advanced course in flying that is expected to fit them for positions as instructors was started today at Municipal airport by six recent graduates of the Civilian Pilot training primary flight school.

The group represents half of the number to be given 160 to 200 hours of instruction in aerial acrobatics and cross-country flying. The six are expected to arrive here Monday.

The students are Harry Brown of Newark, Ray Eiche and John Vogt, both of Mansfield; Russell C. Hyatt of Buckeye Lake, and Karl Kessler and Robert Maurer, both of Niles, Mich.

They are required to stay at the barracks at the port during the period of enrollment, which means, James R. Harrington, airport manager said, that 12 of the 24 youths who have been staying there and are expected to graduate early in March have had to be moved to quarters in the city.

Gasoline Retailers Group Issues Statement; City Studies Ordinance.

The ordinance provides for an emergency supply of gasoline which could be had by applying to the police department during the night.

The association claims that closing the stations at 7 p. m., daily and 1 p. m., on Sundays would help save gasoline, oil, rubber and automobiles. Its members have been operating on the shorter schedule voluntarily for three weeks.

The association statement said "The reduction (in hours) will co-operate in the nationwide movement for conservation, tying in as it does with the program to save gasoline, oil, rubber and cars."

"We do not believe that our statement (issued at the time the voluntary schedule was adopted) tried to hide the fact that we needed a shorter schedule to stay in business as independents and it is a grim fact that the majority in our group are faced with closing our doors . . . unless we can make these hours stick."

The statement said that members of the association had lost more than 75 employees to the armed forces and defense jobs in the past eight weeks, and that while six men had been laid off by stations, they had quickly found work at other stations, which were working short-handed.

The statement also pointed out that although the shorter schedule ordered in the east last summer had been lifted, stations were still operating voluntarily on a shorter schedule.

The association also recalled that its original statement had admitted that the many restrictions on the sale of tires and other automotive accessories had made "essential" the economies that a reduction in working hours would effect.

In answer to Coleman's claim that if all stations in the city were closed at 7 p. m., there would be no place for late shift night workers to obtain fuel, the association said: "We know there is no factory shift that does not permit working men to get their gas

Question: Is City Waterworks Covered By Insurance Or Not?

(Continued From Page 1) would authorize the purchase of the insurance. Wagner said that he had not yet been able to determine if council can authorize the purchase without throwing the contract into the field for bids by several companies.

Crafton urged council to appropriate funds to pay for the insurance at its January meeting but he has never been authorized to purchase the insurance. He said that insurance was purchased in previous years without advertising for bids.

Two weeks ago, one of the pumps at the Maxwell Springs pumping station went out of commission and it was necessary to use two smaller pumps to supply the city. Crafton said that the insurance company repaired the pump and according to the policy was to pay $10 for each of the 33 hours the pump was out of order.

The director stated that he hadn't assembled the various charges to be included in the city's claim but that he would present them to the insurance company soon.

Officials of Holbaugh-Wolfe declined any statement concerning the policy. They would not name the national company owning the contract.

Mayor Locke, when questioned, said that he did not believe the controversy would affect the insurance company or the policy.

Crafton said that the pump had been repaired and was operating efficiently.

SHELBY FIRM KEEPS OFFICERS

Mutual Plate Glass Re-elects Officials at Its Annual Meeting.

SHELBY—L. A. Dennis was re-elected as president and general manager of the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty Co. after the 62nd annual policyholders meeting Monday afternoon at the home offices of the company here.

Other officers re-elected were H. G. Hildebrand, vice president; J. J. Crum, secretary; L. M. Dunathan, assistant secretary; G. S. Dennis, treasurer; and S. S. Kerr, assistant treasurer.

One new director was elected. He was E. P. Curry of Shelby. Directors re-elected were L. M. Dunathan and J. J. Crum.

Reports made by the company officers showed that the company has a gain in total volume written during the year of over 12 per cent. Assets of the company as of Jan. 1, 1942 stood at $2,065,253.39, of which more than 28 per cent is net surplus.

Meanwhile, Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Jokes said in Washington today that he was "frankly worried" about a shortage of fuel in the east and Pacific northwest, because of transportation difficulties.

He added, however, that he was not yet considering renewing last summer's edict forbidding the sale of gasoline after 7 p. m.

Spur Search For Mansfielders To Man Canton Plant

With building construction complete today and installation of machine tools stepped up on the $30,000,000 naval ordnance plant operated by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in Canton, the search for Mansfield area men to help man the 2,000 positions in the plant is being speeded. C. W. Handley, Ohio Employment service Mansfield bureau manager, said.

In anticipation of the plant opening Handley has been sending five Mansfield area youths a week to Canton to finish training there.

When completed the plant will manufacture gun mounts and breech mechanisms. The Rust engineering company of Pittsburgh which completed the building program said the first of four manufacturing plants was completed 140 days after the contract was let and the others 45 days later.

Besides the four manufacturing buildings the plant includes an office, cafeteria, housing and incidental structures with a total floor area of 713,000 feet. The plant has been in partial operation for several weeks.

SMASH 2 NEW JAP ATTACKS

MacArthur's Forces Inflict Heavy Losses on Enemy in Counter-Drive.

Daring new American air and sea attacks to slow the onrush of Japanese forces in the southwest Pacific were confidently expected today on the basis of official statements.

An army report that formations of heavy American bombers were helping the defense of Singapore by raids on Japanese airfields gave evidence of increasing air strength in that vital area.

As for the warfare at sea, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet declared that every man and every vessel of his command was being used to the fullest extent to take the war to the enemy's front door.

Small formations of flying fortress type bombers raided the Japanese airfields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan, on the Malay peninsula, the army said. Poor visibility prevented a check on results of the attacks but the planes returned safely to their bases.

Another formation, consisting of four heavy bombers, was intercepted by Japanese fighter planes while on the way to attack shipping in the Borneo port of Balikpapan. One of the bombers was lost but nine Japanese planes were shot down in the ensuing battle.

In a statement at Honolulu, Admiral Nimitz said his fleet's assault on Japanese concentrations in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands Sunday followed United States navy tradition of seeking out the enemy to destroy him. He said the attack answered in part the question "Where is the fleet?" that has been uppermost in the minds of the American people for weeks.

The fleet is busy across the vast reaches of the Pacific in areas where it can most effectively harass the enemy, he asserted. The admiral explained that its task was a gigantic one because of the 70,000,000 square-mile expanse of the Pacific.

The collection of scrap metal serves a two-fold purpose. It will benefit a Mansfield industry after being melted down in the furnaces of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company and funds derived from that sale will be used to buy articles that will make camp life more pleasant for the country's armed forces.

All scrap will be weighed at the Darling Scales company before being transported to the Empire mill, Marriott said. Large pieces of metal will be reduced to smaller sizes at the steel mill while unwieldy pieces such as old automobile bodies will be crushed and balled before being sent to the mill.

Today's heavy raids against Malang, Madicoen, Magelan and Rembang, on the east Java coast, indicated an attempt to pave the way for such an invasion by knocking out Allied air bases. One Japanese plane was shot down at Malang and another at Madicoen.

The raid by 27 enemy planes which admittedly did considerable damage to naval installations at Soerabaya, now the main Allied naval base in the southwestern Pacific, was part of the same plan of attack.

On the Soviet front, Russia's armies were declared to have inflicted heavy new losses on the Germans and beaten off Nazi counter-attacks launched in a vain attempt to halt the Red army's advance.

In the Ukraine, the German high command acknowledged fresh Soviet pressure northeast of Nazi-held Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov, but asserted that elsewhere on the 1,200-mile battlefield German troops scored local successes despite "stubborn enemy resistance."

Meanwhile, new evidence arose of militant unrest in German-occupied France.

Six bombings and shootings directed against German army installations or soldiers between Jan. 7 and 28 have led to the execution of six Parisian youths and orders for deportation to the east of 100 others officially described as "members of the Communist Youth and Jews."

The Soviet information bureau acknowledged that Feodosiya, a Black sea port used in the Red army's recent invasion of the Crimean panhandle, had been abandoned "some days ago."

Germany announced recapture of Feodosiya Jan. 29.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1942.

Yes, the War COULD Be Lost

ONE QUESTION has been asked increasingly during the past couple of weeks, and is a subject of much group discussion—"Can the United States and its allies lose the war?"

The answer to that question is "Yes!"

If the same degree of complacency which marks the attitude of some Americans toward the war effort reflected the disposition of the nation as a whole, and if the attempts of at least one religious organization to convert young people into "conscientious objectors" succeeds, this war could be lost, and, within a year, the United States and the entire Western Hemisphere could be seized by totalitarian dictators.

Candidly, on the basis of past and present performance in Europe and in the Far East, the Allies ARE losing the war—and there must be a very definite turn of the tide before there can be real assurance of victory.

Over the week-end reports from some Far East points were encouraging, insofar as activities of American sea and air forces are concerned, but these were coupled with a start of the siege of Singapore and continuance of Axis advances in Libya. Despite Russian successes in driving back the invading Nazi armies a look at the map shows that only a sliver of the overrun territory has been recovered and there is nothing to give assurance that a spring and summer drive by Hitler may not again reach threateningly toward Moscow.

Close approach of enemy submarines to the east and west coasts of the United States, and success of the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, show that in spite of the confidence previously expressed by Lindbergh, Wheeler and other isolationists, this country is not immune from attack, and bombardment from the air is now seriously accepted as a possibility in west coast cities.

But if the question is changed to: "WILL the United States and its allies lose the war?" the answer is "No!"

For the things that must be done to win the war CAN be done, and WILL be done, by the United States and its allies. The formula for winning is found in a statement which War Production Chief Donald Nelson made to congress yesterday: "Until final victory is achieved, all of this nation's vast resources of men, materials and machines must be directed to the production of an ever-increasing quantity of war materials at an ever-increasing speed. . . . Everything else is secondary to this purpose."

THAT is the way in which the war will eventually be won—and the length of the conflict will depend largely on how long it takes to change complacency into action, dollars into munitions, and every loyal American into an enthusiastic supporter of the national war program.

Get the Habit, 'Carry Your Own'

EXCEPT for bulky articles, which cannot be carried home in either bus or private car, reduction in delivery service by retail stores will work no particular hardship—and there will still be delivery of articles that cannot be conveniently carried.

But those forgetful people who decide that they will need a third pork chop, after the delivery truck has started out with the original order of two, and those who didn't remember to order a box of matches at the same time they phoned for a cake of yeast earlier in the day, may be somewhat inconvenienced when they find that a truck isn't being held in readiness to rush small articles of merchandise to their homes within a few minutes after the order is placed.

The custom of requiring patrons to carry their purchases has been in vogue with some stores for a number of years, but the convenience of delivery service has been regularly extended by many merchants and reduction in the number of deliveries will require adjustment of buying habits to this new condition—made necessary in order to conserve trucks and tires.

Action by Mansfield merchants in eliminating all unnecessary deliveries and in stopping special deliveries to single customers will be in accord with a state and national movement along the same line.

"Carry-your-own-packages" whenever possible—better have fewer deliveries now than none later.

More Mules Needed

ANYBODY who thinks the mule is becoming extinct hasn't seen those one-mule southern farms and hasn't consulted the army. For either environment this patient beast is invaluable.

A doubter would find 4,500,000 mules in this country today, if he looked long enough. And the U. S. army, reduced to a mere pittance of 7,000 miles, is reported as wanting 15,000 more of them. There is talk of a mule boom.

This patient beast has his faults, but also his points. For some purposes the army cannot get along without him. Nothing on wheels will serve so many purposes so patiently and adequately. He may lack beauty and speed, but he shines in extreme heat or cold, in mountain or desert, wherever speed or intelligence is no object but strength and patient endurance are required. A horse, for the same purpose, brings less than a mule in the market.

Infamies of Earlier Nazis

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO Austria was the most loathed power in Europe. After years of repression by the reactionary Metternich, the Austrian chief minister, the people, without distinction of race, rose in the revolution of 1848. Eventually they were put down; the cruelty of the Austrian armies under Radetzky and Haynau was spread all over Europe. Haynau went down to his grave under the epithet, "woman-whipper," based on an exploit in Hungary. The barbarisms of the Austrian regime were moving told by a great poet, Silvio Pellico, in his narrative, "My Prisons." The infamies of Austria led by degrees to its break-up. First Italy escaped, then Hungary secured autonomy. Finally came the war of 1914-18, and the reduction of the great Austrian empire to a small state surrounding Vienna. Now Germany has succeeded Austria as the universal enemy.

The groundhog saw his shadow yesterday—so there'll be six more weeks before the final date for filling income tax reports.

Although a committee recommends that he be ousted the senate seems inclined to let Langer linger longer.

Odd as it may seem, motorists are now glad to have "that tired feeling."

JAPANESE PEARL DIVER

More About Those Income Taxes

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — If, come March 15, the size of your 1941 income tax knocks you for a loop, and you "just can't possibly pay it," don't blame the treasury department. It's no fault of theirs.

Theoretically, actually, legally, or any other way you want to put it, the treasury is officially not interested in HOW you pay your income tax. It is delegated only with seeing that you DO pay it.

And the treasury department, through the courts, can send you to the hoosegow and slap on fat fines and penalties and a little interest if you don't.

As a matter of fact, this sketch of the treasury department as the Simon Legree of tax collectors isn't nearly as bad as it is painted—not in many instances anyway.

You might not get any treasury department officials to admit it, but they do worry about how you are going to pay your tax.

TAKE the 1941 jolt, for example. Even before congress passed the bill, Secretary Henry A. Morgenthau, Jr., and his staff were out with warnings that 1942 was going to be a solid year of paying and paying and that after that, it probably would get worse.

They never passed up an opportunity to hammer home the fact that you and I had better start saving if we expected to breeze through 1942 and years to come with a balance in the bank.

Not only that, but they did a little extra-curricular thing. They got out "tax anticipation" certificates, which corporations and individuals could buy against that day when they would have to lay it on the line. The corporations bought; the public didn't.

THERE is one other thing—a clause in the law. It permits you to pay your income tax in four quarterly installments, thus spreading the bumps out over the year; with payments due in March, June, September and December.

So far as the treasury here in Washington is concerned, that's the limit of its responsibilities to you in helping you pay your tax. However, in fact and practice, it does a little better by you than that.

Here's how: The collector of internal revenue in each district is charged with the tax collection in his district. If he and his staff don't do their job, they are booted out and a collector and staff are put in that can do it.

Drink Your Cup

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU CRY, "I can't stand it!" So old, that cry. Down all our years, since first the human heart shuddered and broke beneath the weight of grief, that cry has battered at the silent sky.

And now it's your turn. Now you're sobbing that you can't face your loss . . . endure your blow. Now you're pleading that "the cup may pass" as nearly two thousand years ago Jesus of Nazareth pleaded in the garden of Gethsemane.

There he was—alone in the place that had so often given Him peace—but there He was facing the price at last.

He was facing the price which all those who pay who dare to live the Truth. And well the goddess in Him knew that the Truth was worth any price He might have to pay.

But He was man, too. Young man—passionate, proud, hotly in love with life and the trail He had been following—and with all His human heart and human flesh He rebelled against such ghastly fate.

To die upon the cross—nailed like a common thief—He who had broken no law of man or God! Ah, no! There must be some other way.

And so—like you, poor soul!—He prayed. Kneeling, sobbing, under the old olive trees, while those He begged to watch dozed their indifferent sleep. Wrung his clenched hands—and sweated agony until the drops fell heavy as blood—and cried:

"Let this cup, pass, my Father . . . In Your Mercy, let it pass!" Once . . . twice . . . thrice He prayed. But still no answer came from out the silent sky . . . no easing on the sullen, midnight breeze.

And then He knew that He must drink His cup—down, down through shame and torture to the last dark dread. So, rising He cried out, "Thy will be done." And turned, head high, to face the rabble snarling up the hill.

AND now you've come to your Gethsemane. Now, all alone, in darkness, you too pray, "God, stay Your Hand! I cannot bear this thing! This one worst trial I cannot, cannot bear! You can prevent it, if You only will. Then, in

One of these was "Martin Eden," a half-forgotten novel now happily resurrected by Warner Brothers and made into a movie.

WHEN promotion work on this movie got underway it was noted that London's birthday, Jan. 11, was conveniently near, so representatives of Warner's New York office telephoned a famous old Manhattan ale house and made arrangements to celebrate the anniversary of London's birthday with a little extra-added cheer.

The good people at the ale house were delighted, you may be sure. They said they would do everything in their power, which was considerable, to make the evening a success.

They wanted to know how many guests to expect. They wanted to know about the food. And about the ale. Should it be ice, or merely cellar chilled? Then the man on the other end of the wire asked one more question. "Tell me," he said, "Will Mr. London himself be here?"

Jack London has been dead 25 years.

ALL the waiters in the Pine Room of the George Washington hotel are Filipinos. I had quite a talk with one at lunch today. He was Benito Galian, aged 40, an expatriated Manilan, who, like his 19 other compatriots, is enduring a sort of special torment, waiting for word of their relatives and friends to get through.

Benito himself has a father, four sisters and four brothers in Manila, and he hasn't heard a word of any of them since war began. His father is a doctor. He has a 15-year-old daughter who lives in Chicago, and he is divorced.

On his white tunic he wears a pin that says, "I am a Filipino," and on the pin is an American flag.

They put as good a face on the matter as they can. But as Benito puts it, "Sometimes the waiting is pretty long, especially at night, when there's nothing to do but think and wonder."

IF YOU'RE wondering why so many debutantes are pictured so frequently "romancing" in the nightclubs — it isn't romance. Quite a number make their pin-money that way. They may charge $10, or maybe $20, or maybe even $50 for posing with the different swains. I was sitting within three feet of Chic Farmer, now representing El Morocco, one afternoon when he telephoned one of the better publicized debs and said, "Honey, there's ten bucks in it for you if you'll come down tomorrow at 4:30 and pose for a couple of pictures."

She said, "Yes," and, next day, she was there.

Lewis Organizing Dairy Farmers, Michigan Drive Starts Campaign

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis has returned to the brooding silence from which he suddenly popped his booming AFL-CIO peace scheme, but while saying nothing publicly, the power-hungry miner boss is not idle.

Under cover, he is busy organizing dairy farmers as members of the United Mine Workers.

The farmers are in Michigan and they are being signed up as members of Local 50, a sort of catch-all UMW branch, made up of units of munitions, chemical coke, cosmetics and gas workers. Head of Local 50 are two Lewis appointees—Ora Gassaway, old-time UMW henchman, and Lewis' daughter and former confidential secretary, Kathryn. Gassaway gets $10,000 a year; Miss Lewis, $7,500.

Local 50 was recently in the news as a result of a purge of a number of crack organizers who didn't see eye to eye with Lewis' isolationist views.

Directly in charge of the farmer drive are two other Lewis henchmen—Ray Thomason, another old-time UMW official, who attracted attention at the recent CIO convention when he slugged two assistants of CIO president Phil Murray, and Ralph Marlatt, labor publicity agent.

According to Thomason and Marlatt, over 5,000 Michigan dairy

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—What price fame?

Jack London was an egoist who loaded his novels with borrowings from his own autobiographical experiences. His heroes operated under picturesque names and in the most engaging circumstances, but when you analyzed them—pacing a quarter deck or pointing their long frosty muzzles at the white arctic moon—they always turned out to be Jack London in disguise.

One of these was "Martin Eden," a half-forgotten novel now happily resurrected by Warner Brothers and made into a movie.

Jap Spies.

BEHIND Attorney General Biddle's announcement of the mass evacuation of enemy aliens from strategic Pacific Coast areas was a pile of sensational FBI evidence that just could not be disregarded.

These menacing discoveries, backed by army and navy demands for action, finally produced it.

Illustrative of the sort of things the FBI uncovered is the following "item": The FBI got a tip that three Japanese servants of a Santa Barbara, Calif., physician were fifth columnists. A G-man was sent to investigate.

The doctor vehemently protested the innocence of his servants. He insisted they were loyal to the U. S. and completely trustworthy. "I know them like a book," he declared. "They have been in my employ twelve years. The suspicion that they might be guilty of any wrongdoing is preposterous. I vouch for these people."

The doctor was so emphatic that the investigator took his word and did not press the matter further. But FBI headquarters was not satisfied and sent another agent with orders to search the doctor's house.

In the upstairs quarters of the Jap servants, the G-man found, secreted in a closet, a large radio transmitter powerful binoculars and a quantity of signal flares. Also documents showing that the butler was a reserve officer in the Jap army.

Note: Representative Harry B. Sheppard of Calif., militant advocate of enemy alien evacuation, relates that when a friend discharged a Jap servant after Pearl Harbor, he snapped, "After the war, you will work for me."

Butchering Day

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE HOG we wanted to butcher was too big for a man to do alone. She weighed nearly 400 pounds. I stopped at a neighbor's where I had often seen butchering tools used, to see about getting help to butcher mine. The day was fine, and I saw a crew of five men bringing water from a stream and heating it in three big kettles over open fires.

"One hog, you say?" remarked the neighbor. "Why don't you save yourself some trouble?" Slowly but purposefully he walked into his woodhouse, got his trusty repeating rifle and handed it to me. "Shoot your hog and bring it over," he suggested. "We're going to butcher eight or ten today. The water's already hot. One more won't make much difference to us—but more to you." (Which shows what kind of neighbors we have here on Honey Creek.)

I QUICKLY ran up the road the other way and borrowed a trailer and a man to help kill and bleed the animal. In a half hour we were back, and I kept up the fire while the butchers went to dinner. Then the three men helped me scald and scrape the beast, and hang it on the tallest and firmest tripod. We rinsed down the outer skin, took off the massive head, then dressed and halved the carcass. They laid the two halves on the two front fenders for me, with the remark—"It's almost as big as a beef."

I roped it fast, and when I tried to express my gratitude, "We're neighbors," they said, and waved me graciously on my way.

AT HOME, I had an audience of four wide-eyed boys, as I cut up the meat. The oldest boy assumed the task of sharpening one knife while I used the other.

BERTHA's pen was empty at the barn—but not for long. We have a young red gilt who will take the place. Her name is Bertha, too.

MISS CORA M. PURDY WED ON JANUARY 31

Miss Purdy and Sylvester Kiser Exchange Vows on Saturday at 2:30 P. M. Before Altar of Park Avenue Baptist Church.

BEFORE the altar of the Park Avenue Baptist church on Jan. 31, at 2:30 p. m., Miss Cora Margaret Purdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Purdy, Weller township, became the bride of Sylvester Kiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kiser, Washington township. Rev. A. L. Linder performed the open church service before an altar attractively decorated with white chrysanthemums and gladioli, ferns and palms and two seven branch candelabra.

For her wedding the bride wore a formal white slipper gown, fashioned princess style with a sweetheart neckline long sleeve and a full skirt which fell into a long train. Her only jewelry was a gold necklace which had belonged to her great-grandmother. Her finger tip veil, which was worn virgin style, was attached to a white satin crown. She carried a colonial style bouquet of white roses, gardenias and narcissus with a white orchid in the center.

Mrs. Arlie Kiser, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served as matron-of-honor. She wore a rose taffeta gown trimmed with blue velvet and wore a head band of blue velvet morning glories. Her colonial style bouquet was of Talisman roses and sweet peas. Mrs. James Purdy was the bridesmaid. She was attired in a blue taffeta gown with rose velvet accessories and wore a head band of rose velvet flowers. Her only

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

AS I NOTED the metallic quality of Stephen Redfield's voice, and the change in his manner I could almost believe in the dual personality so stressed by psychic investigators.

Ordinarily he is over-elaborate in his courtesy, and in his adherence to even the minor rules of social observance. Even when his vanity is wounded, as it had been by Mary the evening before, he does not forget his pose and his inner feelings are betrayed only by a vicious expression in his eyes, or a note of venom investing his otherwise smooth voice.

But now he seemed to shrug off his veneer as he might an outer coat, when he had occasion to refer to the quest which the gangsters, whose associate we knew he was, were so busily engaged in pursuing.

Clumsy Pretext. He had built up a clumsy explanation for wishing information concerning Jack Bickett, an explanation which I had accepted to accord at its face value, while utterly disbelieving it. But his manner, even while making the explanation palpably intended to mislead me, was totally different from his usual suavity. He was brusque almost to the point of discourtesy, and there was something steely, even menacing, about him. I found myself wondering for the first time if I were wrong in my estimate of him as a mere go-between who had neither the desire nor the ability to share in the more dangerous work of his colleagues.

True, he had proved himself to be a coward when he fled in white-livered haste from Noel's anger, but gangsters are not noted for their physical courage. They can hunt in packs. But when one goes to fight by himself he generally mutters his version of "Kamerad!"

Was Stephen Redfield one of these bullying, murderous gangsters when he was away from the theater?

Covert Insolence. He sturred when I did not answer him at first, and spoke again.

"I know all that," he said, and although I was convinced he was lying I could not tell him so. "The last interval of silence has been an unusually long one," I said. "Frankly, I doubt whether my kindness is alive."

He looked at me shrewdly. "I can relieve your mind on that score," he said. "We have advised that he is very much alive. We think he is either already in this country or is headed for here. But we do not know just where he is, and therefore we are trying to get that information from his family."

He didn't write his family before he started, he probably won't at all," I said a bit tartly. "There is only one person in the world who might know."

Auxiliary Buys Defense Bonds; Plays Bridge

Hostesses for a dessert-luncheon which was enjoyed by members of the Women's auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 1:30 p. m. Monday, were Mrs. R. D. Campbell and Mrs. R. R. Crawford. Following the luncheon a business meeting was held. Mrs. Lewis McCullough displayed defense bonds which she had been authorized to purchase with surplus funds in the society's treasury.

Contract bridge was played during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the games prizes were awarded to Mrs. D. W. Peppard, Mrs. John S. Hattery, and Mrs. C. L. Hannum of Plymouth. Mrs. Stanley Schiller and Mrs. Paul Stordy will be hostesses for the dessert-luncheon and meeting which will be held at the Women's Club at 1:15 p. m. on Mar. 2.

Alumnae Club Has Luncheon At Lewis Home

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon when Mrs. Glenn Lewis entertained members of the Western Reserve Alumnae club at her home, 31 Bowman street. During the business session which followed, Mrs. R. J. Welsh was elected to serve as president for the coming year.

Others who were named as officers at yesterday's meeting are Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh, vice president; Miss Lois MacKellar, secretary; Mrs. C. J. Kitcher of Ashland, treasurer, and Mrs. Russell E. Stewart of Galion, program chairman.

The club's scholarship project was discussed during the business meeting and plans were made to have a luncheon late in the spring for high school girls who are interested in attending Flora Stone Mather college. On March 30, Mrs. Stewart will entertain the members with a luncheon at Hotel Talbot in Galion and a business and social meeting at her home.

Miss Booker Will Autograph Copies Of Her New Book

Copies of her recent book "News Is My Job" will be autographed by Miss Edna Lee Booker following her lecture for the Federation of Women at the Ohio theater Thursday morning. Program will be opened with introductory remarks by the federation president, Mrs. Paul Bovard, promptly at 11 o'clock.

Miss Booker will describe her experiences during 17 years of reporting in the Orient. She will also tell about her recent evacuation on government orders from Shanghai via the Dutch East Indies, Australia, New Zealand, and the South Seas.

As Far Eastern correspondent for the International News Service and feature writer for the China Press Miss Booker gathered a wealth of information which she will present to her Mansfield audience. Federation members are to make their reservations for luncheon at the Women's Club not later than Wednesday noon.

Business Girls' Bible Club Has Shower for Bride

The home of Miss Elizabeth Wharton, 371 Marion avenue, was the scene last evening of a meeting of the Business Girls' Bible club. Fourteen members and one guest, Miss Louise Todd were present. After a short business session, Miss Betty Blackstone led the group in devotions and Mrs. D. W. Cummings, adviser, taught the lesson on the seventeenth chapter of Luke. This portion of the meeting was closed with the club prayer.

On Feb. 16, Miss Ellen Bechtel will be hostess to the club at her home, 271 West Fourth street. Following the meeting, the club had a shower for Mrs. James E. Hamblin who was Miss Ruth Swaidner prior to her recent marriage. Small kitchen utensils were gifts from the members and the club presented her with a floor lamp. Luncheon was served at a late hour.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, February 4
A DAY of unusual adventures and undertakings following quickly after the sudden removal of some stubborn obstacle or a long-standing static situation. Such quick transition may have far-reaching effect on molding the future life and its destinies and should influence decisively the fruition of advances, ambitions and desires. Yet all may not move success-fully and happily, since there is opposition, intrigue and duplicity to cope with from open as well as hidden sources. Be alert and cautious, and both friends and strangers may be of benefit.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year calling for much ingenuity, resolution and sagacity, to cope with conflicting forces. While sudden and unforeseen opportunities for financial improvement are seen, with those in influential places assisting and showing a helpful, friendly spirit, yet it would be advisable not to go too far in taking advantage of this. Also it would be wise to preserve harmony and happiness in the home circle by restrained impulses and soft speech when aggravating circumstances arise.

BUCKEYE HOBBY CLUB HAS DINNER MONDAY

During Business Session Mrs. Harry Shover, New President, Names Officers and Committees.

BUCKEYE HOBBY CLUB members and guests enjoyed a covered-dish dinner at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. Places were set for 50 at tables decorated with red, white and blue. Miniature Uncle Sam hats marked each place. A short program was presented and patriotic songs were sung by the group.

Mrs. Harry Shover, new president of the club, had charge of the business session and announced names of the other officers and committee members. Vice president is G. M. Edler; Mrs. Madge Gerrell is secretary, and E. C. Peat is treasurer. Membership committee is comprised of Mrs. Paul Harter, chairman, Mrs. V. C. Stevens, Mrs. G. M. Edler and Mrs. Pearl Faught.

Mrs. Mary Ross, chairman of the social committee, will be assisted by Mrs. Edna Chronister, Mrs. Esther Eggerton and Mrs. Marie Henke. Program committee consists of Miss Catherine Riggs, chairman, and the Misses Elizabeth Gerrell, Catherine Pollock and Mildred Hickman. Mrs. Henry Albers is publicity chairman.

The club decided to sponsor the Frank Lahm Cadets as this year's object. Plans were made to have the annual hobby show at the Y. M. C. A. from May 5 to 10. Donald Cram will serve as general chairman for this show. Co-chairmen will be Harold Hill and Carl Pollock. Next meeting will be held on March 2 with Mrs. L. H. Funk as social chairman.

Choir Festival Plans Discussed At Club Meeting

Mrs. Paul Cropper gave an interesting paper on "Brazil and Chile" at the meeting of the Mansfield Music Study club Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Shafer, 771 Woodhill road. Assisting Mrs. Cropper during the program were Mrs. Emory Smith, John Grabler, and Albert Lirroid, vocalists; George Tuttle and Lawrence Frank, pianists, and Mrs. E. D. Gibson, violinist.

Fifty members and guests attended the meeting which was held in a large room attractively decorated with flowers in pastel colors. During the business session plans were made for the annual choir festival to be held Feb. 13 at St. John's Evangelical church. The program will be presented by junior choirs in the city. Miss Elizabeth Burneson is chairman for this meeting which is open to the public. Organist will be Mrs. Dean Eckert.

March 2 the club will hold an ensemble program at the Jones Piano House on Park Avenue west. Mrs. John Jones will be hostess. Mrs. Gladys Lane, chairman, will give a paper on "Cuba and Argentina."

Members of the Women's Missionary society of the East Mansfield United Presbyterian church held a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Bell. Thirty members and one guest, Mrs. Smith Rose, were in attendance.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Elsie Jordan. Mrs. Daise Miller led the group in prayer. Mrs. Nettie Fish conducted the program. The meeting was closed with the group repeating the Lord's prayer in unison. Mrs. Rose will entertain the society at her home on the Wooster road on March 2.

FATHER JOHN'S Medicine

Get It NOW and Get Results That Have Built Its Reputation — Tested By 85 Years' Use — Could Anything Be More Convincing?

Victims of colds often are those whose resistance is low due to lack of vitamin A. FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE helps to relieve such colds and also coughs and throat irritation resulting from colds by its soothing effect on the throat. Its wholesome ingredients are rich in the essential vitamins A and D. No amount of advertising alone could have built its reputation and good will unless the medicine had real merit.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

HE SWIMS UPSTREAM

"Only the game fish swims upstream" is one of the most inspiring of sportsmen's mottoes. Its principle has to be applied by the contract declarer who willingly places himself in a grand slam contract at No Trumps when it is clear to him that it should be easier to take 13 tricks in some suit previously bid. He deprives himself of such plays as tuffing out losers ruffing up a long suit to furnish discards, grand coups and a number of other devices. With his number of weapons cut down, he has to depend largely upon squeeze plays to build non-obvious tricks, much as an infantryman is sometimes reduced to using his bayonet when his cartridges are gone.

West led his spade K and then came six heart tricks from dummy, followed by the club K, J and A, which squeezed the stinger out of West's cards. Mr. Gerst discarded so as to have in his hands three diamonds when he led the club A, and in the dummy the spade 10 and three diamonds. West held his spade Q as the only protection against the dummy's club A, and in the dummy the spade 10, so had to toss one of his diamonds. The diamond Q, the A dropping the K, and the J completed the contract, giving the intrepid declarer a well-earned and huge rewards.

If West leads the 8 of the diamonds which East had bid, what card should be played from the dummy by South who is in a contract of 3-Spades?

That bidding produced top score on this deal for Herbert J. Geist of Norfolk in the Southern Appalachian championships. But first let's see what he beat. Next best on the deal was 7-Hearts by North, who made it by finessing clubs, discarding a spade on the third club, ruffing a fourth club, then discarding a diamond on the fifth and finessing diamonds.

One South made 7-Clubs by means of a grand coup, ruffing a good fourth heart to shorten his trumps and using the diamond finesse for a needed extra entry to dummy, enabling him to discard his own losing diamond on a heart and trap East's trump Q.

Mr. Geist had to get along with-out these devices, in No Trumps.

CHAPTER XXIV

Greg had proved to be an amusing companion. Dancing at Chicago's most famous roof garden, Linda had tried to share his banalities, but unsuccessfully. Yet if Greg knew something was amiss he gave no sign. At last, when Linda could no longer stand the noise and gaiety which seemed to revolve around her, she had said pathetically:

"Will you take me home please, Greg? I'm not feeling very well."

"Your trip must have been too much for you," Greg said gently. All in all he was a different person from the supercilious young man whose stay in Prairieville had created so much excitement. His every thought now was for Linda's comfort, and although she could feel no respect for a man who had caused her such heartbreak, still she admired his determination to win her favor.

Greg had made no move to take her in his arms when he stopped her before the apartment house. That, too, had been a surprise, but she supposed Greg was biding his time, awaiting the proper opportunity.

"Good night, dear," he whispered tenderly, not knowing how Linda revolved against those words. Still she had nodded and smiled, and hurried away.

Passing the library door, she saw the narrow strip of light that indicated Steve was still awake, and Linda hesitated, yearning to enter the room. Inside the study, Steve sitting hunched over his desk, lifted his head expectantly at the slight sound, his attitude one of watchful waiting.

Then came the sound of footsteps retreating, the soft rustle of silk, and the almost undistinguishable click as Linda's bedroom door closed after her, and the vital moment was passed...

Until dawn Linda had turned and tossed restlessly, trying to forget all that had been said. Then, at last, she had slept.

Ellen appeared shortly after Linda had awakened, bringing a breakfast tray and the morning paper.

"Where is Mr. Baridon this morning?" Linda asked automatically.

"I don't know, Madam," the maid was apologetic. "He left early without saying where he was going. He looked worried, if you'll pardon me for saying so."

Linda had not heard her. In the act of turning newspaper pages, she stopped, her eyes frozen to a page.

"Is something wrong, ma'am?" Ellen asked. "You're white as a sheet and trembling so!"

Linda could not tear her eyes from the page. There was Brenda's picture—a picture obviously taken on her honeymoon. Across the page were the words:

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM WEALTHY MANUFACTURER

So Jerry had lost, in his battle to hold Brenda.

Linda's senses reeled. Her first thought was disbelief. Jerry Coleman had been so positive in his declaration that he would never free Brenda. Linda was reading on avidly. Brenda was flying to Reno to obtain her divorce decree. Jerry, after admitting break, had locked himself in his mansion and could not be reached. It was true!

Linda flung the papers down and tried to collect her thoughts. Her own troubles were forgotten temporarily. She dismissed Ellen and found the telephone number that would reach Jerry. She was not sure what she would say to him if he could be reached. He had been kind to her. Now she could be equally considerate.

"Mr. Coleman is out," the Coleman butler said.

"Tell him—tell him it's Linda Baridon calling."

She waited anxiously, to hear Jerry's voice over the wire at last. Jerry sounded harassed and uncaring, and she said impulsively: "I've just seen the papers. Mr. Coleman. Is there anything—anything I can do or say that will help?"

She heard his quick intake of breath before he said pitifully: "I'm afraid there's nothing anyone can say now."

"Jerry, why did you do it?" Linda held her breath. What would he think of her brazen attitude in calling—a near stranger—in times such as these facing Brenda's unrequited husband?

"I... I had no choice," he was saying agonizedly. "I told you

ENLIST YOUR DOLLARS for HOME DEFENSE

We all recognize that conditions unknown until this period of defense effort now govern our regular requirements for personal use, for the home—and to keep the family well housed, well clothed, and well fed. Now more than ever, it is important that we live ECONOMICALLY, yet comfortably, while helping to build the nation's defense.

With this in mind, Mansfield merchants, buyers, clerks, are doing their share to make COMMUNITY BARGAIN DAYS a stupendous 2-day event—2 days of truly exceptional value giving. YOU'RE to take part and the best part is that YOU ARE GOING TO SAVE MONEY.

MARKET BALKS ON WAR NEWS AT SINGAPORE

Lima Locomotive Hits New High as Rails Pace Slight Climb.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Small buying had a shade the best of it in today's stock market although numerous leaders continued in the wavering division.

Among early favorites Lima Locomotive edged into new high ground for 1941-42. Supported were Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Chrysler, General Electric and Johns-Manville.

The critical position of Singapore, more than anything else, brokers said, was a restraining influence for share holders. Scant stimulation was discerned in the domestic picture although business developments were fairly encouraging.

Market students saw further confirmation of the country's economic drive in the federal reserve compilation disclosing commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities climbed $57,000,000 in the week ended Jan. 28. The total of $6,778,000,000 exceeded the comparable week a year ago by $1,702,000,000.
